ARTICLES (by title)

Appropriate educational technology: Does "appropriateness" have implications for the theoretical framework of educational technology?, Alistair Stewart, 33:1 58–65

Assessing professional decision-making abilities, Robert McNergney and Stephanie Hinson, 33:3 179–183

Comment: A source of questions, William D. Taylor, 33:1 66–69

Empirical issues in the study of computer-assisted interactive video, Michael J. Hannafin, 33:4 235–247

Evaluating the CTW model for producing educational television, Thomas D. Cook and Thomas R. Curtin, 33:2 91–112

Evidence for confounding in computer-based instruction studies: Analyzing the meta-analyses, Richard E. Clark, 33:4 249–262

Faculty perceptions of instructional development and the success/failure of an instructional development program: A naturalistic study, Sharon A. Shrock, 33:1 16–25

Family contexts of television, Hope Jensen Leichter, Durre Ahmed, Leoncios Barrios, Jennifer Bryce, Eric Larsen, and Laura Moe, 33:1 26–40

A few more thoughts on Clark's "Learning from Media", Michael D. Petkovich and Robert D. Tennyson, 33:2 146

Instructional technology and the structure of education, Robert Heinich, 33:1 9–15

Instructor and group process roles in computer-based training, Barbara L. McCombs, 33:3 159–167

Interactive effect of information structure, sequence of information, and process learning time on rule learning using computer-based instruction, Robert D. Tennyson, James C. Welsh, Dean L. Christensen, and Halyna Hajovy, 33:3 213–223

Introduction: Asking new questons about technology and the social world of education, Stephen T. Kerr, 33:1 3–8

Introduction: Exploring computers and individual differences, Carol Carrier, 33:3 155–157

The inverse tool principle, John C. Belland, 33:1 51–57

Is the self-paced instructional program, via microcomputer-based instruction, the most effective method of addressing individual learning differences? John C. Belland, William D. Taylor, James Canelos, Francis Dwyer, and Patti Baker, 33:3 185–198

Issues in using computers to socialize the writing process, Collette Daiute, 33:1 41–50

Keywords and vocabulary acquisition: Some words of caution about Johnson, Adams, and Bruning (1985), Michael Pressley and Joel R. Levin 33:4 277–284

Keywords and vocabulary acquisition: Some words of caution about words of assistance, Craig W. Johnson, Marianne Adams, and Roger Bruning, 33:2 125–138

Metacognition, elaboration, and knowledge acquisition: Implications for instructional design, Francis J. Di Vesta and F. Michael Finke, 33:4 285–293

Personalizing context in teaching mathematical concepts: Teacher-managed and computer-assisted models, Steven M. Ross, Deborah McCormick, Nancy Krisak, and Padma Anand, 33:3 169–178

Preschoolers' learning when pictures do not tell the whole story, Nancy Digdon, Michael Pressley, and Joel R. Levin, 33:2 139–145

The selection of instructional options in a computer-based coordinate concept lesson, Carol Carrier, Gayle Davidson, and Michael Williams, 33:3 199–212

Transfer of training principles for instructional design, Richard E. Clark and Alexander Voogel, 33:2 113–123

Videogames and spatial skills: An exploratory study, Diana Gagnon, 33:4 263–275

RESEARCH ABSTRACTS (by title)

Aptitude sensitive instruction: The role of media attributes in optimizing transfer of training, Margaret French, 33:1 82–83
Computer-assisted instruction and continuing motivation, Mary Lou Mosley and others, 33:3 232
Computer science literacy training for educators: A case study, Jane L. Winer and Monty J. Strauss, 33:3 232
Developing and assessing visual thinking, Marian L. Martinello and Loretta Mammen, 33:4 300
The effect of programmed tutoring upon the reading comprehension of fourth-grade students enrolled in a Chapter 1 reading program, Donna S. McGrady, 33:1 83
Effects of computer-based education on elementary school pupils, Chen-Lin C. Kulik and others, 33:3 231–232
The effects of recall cue and cognitive trace compatability when learning from mediated instruction: An applied view of encoding specificity, James Canelos and others, 33:1 81
Effects of text structure on children's comprehension of expository material. Technical report no. 316, Mary A. Moes and others, 33:2 150
Hemispheric asymmetries and cognitive attributes, Pat-Anthony Federico, 33:2 150
The interaction of cognitive style and auditory learning via rate modified speech (compressed and expanded), Janet S. Olson, 33:1 84
Metaphor as structure-mapping: What develops. Technical report no. 315, Dedre Gentner and Patricia Stuart, 33:4 300
Microcomputers and the classroom order, John K.Olson, 33:3 231
Naturalistic inquiry: An example used in photographic research, Marina Stock McIsaac, 33:1 85
Processing time and question type in the comprehension of compressed speech with adjunct pictures, Subhreawpun Tantiblarphol and Larson T. Hughes, 33:1 84–85
The relative effectiveness of pictures versus words in conveying abstract and concrete prose, Michael J. Hannafin, 33:1 83
The role of cognitive style in processing color information: A signal detection analysis, Louis H. Berry, 33:1 84
A signal detection analysis of digitized and photographic image modes and color realism in a pictorial recognition memory task, Abdel-Latif I. El-Gazzar, 33:1 81–82

Visual attention to picture and word materials as influenced by characteristics of the learners and design of the materials, Malcolm Fleming, 33:1 82
